Exciting Scenes About a Bank.

The excitement at Clearfield, Pa, concerning the First National Bank failure was Intensified Wednesday night when the condition of things at Houtzdale was learned. The Hou zisle Bank is a private concern, which was tought by Dill last spring. Be-fore he purchased it the people were dis trustful, as the former company had been doing a loose business, having lost $40,000 through the defaication of Teller William Hamilton, who is now in the penitentlary.
When Dill took charge be placed John B McGrath, a justice of the peace, in whom the whole community had the utmost confidence, in obarge as cashier. This at once stimulated business, and on the first day over $9,000 was received in deposits, mostly coming from poor miners. At that time the deposits did not reach $60,000, but through McGrath's well known integrity and popularity they grew until Wednesday morning

Upon opening the bank Wednesday Mc-Grath had crossion to telephone the First National Bank concerning a check, and was astounded to learn that it had closed. He astounded his bank, but had already rethey reached $200,000. National Bank concerning a check, and wes astounded to learn that it had cicred. He at once closed his bank, but had a ready received several deposits. The word spread rapidly, and, before long, several hundred depositors were on the screets. The ignorant Hues and Biave, of whom there are many, who have deposits running .com $200 to $2,000, grew frantic when they learned that their money was in danger.

The larger depositors at once sought Cash ler McGrath, and he informed them that although the deposite reach $200,000, less than $60,000, paper and currency, was in the bank when it closed. He said that President Dill had removed a great amount of the money, giving as his reason that the Houtzdale vanit was not secure, and that he would put it in the Clearfield vanit. When it became known that they were likely to get less than 50 cents on the dollar, the deposisors grew wild.

Mr. Dill had been catering to the mining class in many and various ways for the past five years. In 1886 he gave a miners' picnic, bringing over two thousand man, wom-en and children from Hou zdale to Clearfield, and entertaining them in the large park there in a bandsome manner. This and many other act; caused them to look upon him se a sort of philanthropist, and now they charge him with planning this scheme for years.

A delegation of Houzdale depositors reached Olearfield Wednesday night and saw Dill, but he gave no satisfaction except to say that if they would stand by him they would come out all right. They asked him to make an assignment of the Houzdale Bank to them or appoint a receiver. Many of them talk of instituting criminal proceed ings, but this is not likely just now. It is eald that Dill has been borrowing right and left. Only a few days ago his father-in-law, Jonathan Boynton, advanced $20,000 to him on the representation that it would fix everything up and put the bank on its feet. Bank Examiner Miller arrived Wednesday morolog and has charge of the bank He has nothing to say for publication, but the people of Clearfield think the depositors of the First National will get their money.

The Poorhouse His Reward.

A man eighty-eix years of age was cent to the Columbus, O., infirmary Wednesday who spent the best part of his life to aid the workingmen and women of the country. workingmen and women of the country. His name is William Allen, better known by the name of "Land Bill Allen." Over fifty years ago Mr. Allen commenced the work of his life for his fellow-men. At the time he resided in Perry county, and was owner of a valuable farm, and was surrounded by a happy family. He then commenced the agitation of the homestead law, and traveled the country over at his own expense in delivering speeches and lectures in fur-therance of his work. He also addressed legislatures until, at last, Congress passed a national homestead law, giving every actual settler one hundred and sixty acres of land. For this work he was lauded, but received no payment. He spent his fortune in the cause, his family died off, and now he is in the poorhouse. Besides this, his work in Ohio led to the adoption by that State of the exemption law, by which, for the poor man, a certain amount of property is set aside exempt from sheriff and constable sale. His little farm in Parry county was sold by the sheriff some years ago, since which time he has lived by begging. When sent to the in-firmary he presented a most miserable appearance, his clothing being in tatters and
